WASHINGTON, MAY 1, 1888,

SCRAMBLES FOR SECOND PLACE. The Vice-Presidential outlook is assuming unwented interest and complexity. It has rarely been the case that while the Presidential nominations have been so generally conceded to men who have made no avowed effort to secure them, the Vice-Presipirants and made the subject of so much rivalry and political intrigue. It has very often happened that while Presidential nominations have been awarded to eager aspirants and active candidates the Vice-Presidential nominations have actually sought the men.

This year the situation is singularly

While the Presidential nominations are seeking men who have deelared against second terms and written letters of declination, half a dozen States are in arms and a score of candidates are preparing for the Vice-Presidential fray.

The opposition which the favorite sons are encountering in their own States is also remarkable. As Casar had his Brutus and Charles the First his Cromwell, so Black has found his Morrison and Gray his McDonald; Harrison has been somewhat battered by a Gresham Presidential boom, Dickinson has run against some adverse Congressional election returns, Vilas is being worried with jealous antag onisms at home; Illinois Republican aspirants, like their Democratic brethren, are suffering from the overproduction of statesmen in that commonwealth: Depew has incurred the displeasure of the anti-monopolists, and East and West, and in both parties, the Vice-Presidential aspirants have encountered obstacles that lend increased interest to dark-horse gos-

MR. CLEVELAND steered clear of "entangling alliances" in his selection of a new Chief Justice.

A GOOD MANY PROPLETE wanting to know how The Critic was able yesferday afternoon to present a picture of the new Chief Justice so soon after the announcement of his nomination and in view of the fact that Mr. Fuller's pictures have not been procurable at photographers. But we are not giving it away. If we get on to a thing before anybody else does, that's our own affair, and we will not di-

EDITOR REID of the New York Tribune has picked up a hornet in General Mahone of Virginia, and by the sting end, too.

IN THE APPOINTMENT of Mr. Fuller of Chicago to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the President seems to have been peculiarly fortunate. There is no question raised as to the qualifications of Mr. Fuller for the po sition, so far as learning in the law and experience at the bar are concerned. His professional record is honorable and eminent. He is of reputable life and character and of about the right age. In politics he was originally a Douglass Democrat and has pursued a conservative and consistent course ever since Looking at the matter from a political standpoint, the President must have also taken the question of location into consideration, and has certainly shown good judgment in this respect. He has done what is often semewhat difficult to do in appointments of an important character-kept "good politics" in sight, and at the same time carefully consulted the public interests. To the President and Mr. Fuller, both, THE CRITIC'S congratula-

A New York policeman caught robbing a store on his beat yesterday morning at 4 o'clock, was indicted, tried, convicted, sentenced and shot up in Sing Sing for ten years before 6 o'clock last evening. It takes longer than that, however, when they eatch a high official stenling.

Chicago has so long devoted her-self to the cultivation of pork that the knowledge that she was also, unknown to herself, cultivating material for a Chief Justice came almost in the nature of a shock to her culture.

THE DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS have apparently "struck a snag" in their efforts to obtain information from the street railway companies and regulate their methods of business, yet we do not see that the Commissioners demand anything that is not reasonable or legitimate. It is unfortunate and unbusinesslike that such a situation should exist. Corporations are, of course, entitled to all the consideration and protection that are accorded | to private lizens, but they should be equally subject and amenable to the law. It is to be hoped that Congress will put the whole question of street raffrond taxation into some definitive hape at its present session.

SENATOR BECK said about all there was to say yesterday in opposition to the International Copyright bill. He is firm in the faith that the object of the proposed legislation is to build up a big menopoly in the interest of a few American publishers and to the direct disadvantage of sixty million American citizens. What special advantages we are to gain by surroundng foreign authors with protection and leaving our own people unprotected, the Senator is unable to see. How would it do to repeal the tariff

THE LATE MODELSON R. WATER OF Ohio, a man not of national reputation, was appointed Chief Justice ter days after he had made a speech i response to a toast, and Melville W. Fuller of Chicago, a man not of national reputation, was appointed as his successor ten days after he had on books and let this matter rest made a speech in response to a toust. THE PANAMA LOTTERY BILL DASSE. the French Chamber of Deputies Satorday by a vote of 312 to 132, and Monsieur De Lesseps laughs best because be laughs last.

Torne is some possibility that Mr. Gladstone will lead out soon in a strong speech against papal aggression. If he does he will no longer be the popular favorite in Ireland, at dential nominations have been prizes least of Southern Ireland, which is so eagerly sought by so many asthe centre of the boiling point in all differences with the Government.

I can savan be Minister to England now. - | Patrick Collins, M. C.

OF THE APPOINTMENT Of Mr. Puller the New York Herald says: "He is the most striking and original discovery of the Administration." As a great and original striker Mr. Cleve land appears to be a success.

IN THE MEANTIME what has become of Minister Phelps?

CHOCOLATE MERISOUE PUDDING. - Boll butter, one teacup of sugar and three ounces of grated chocolate; let it boil, and when cool add the whites of four eggs; pour this into a pudding dish lined with slices of sponge cake and bake; cover with meringue and let it brown. Eat with lemon sauce. SENATOR HAMPTON of South Carolina has an article in America, the new Chicago weekly, on "Immigration and the Reweekly, on Initingation and the suits of the War," in course of which he says that he is in full accord with the views of that journal as to the necessity of throwing every saleguard around the exercise of suffrage, and of limiting, if need be, any further extension of the elective franchise.

An eagle's claw, holding a handsome sapphire, is a pleasing design for a single prong hair pin. A hammered gold crescent, within which is a tiny for get-me-not, is a pretty design for scart pins.

A curb chain bracelet much in favor is of silver, each link being paved on top with small diamonds.

Gold initials, suggestive of the owner's name, are much admired as pendants for glove buttoners.

Two pink pearls separated by a golden tassel set with seed pearls is a handsome design in bonnet pins. Enameled watch cases, in patterns representing a variety of small flowers, having diamond centres, are much ad-mired.

A carnation pink paved with rubies, having two diamond pistils, makes a costly out attractive design in brooches. A narrow silver ribbon, paved with dia-monds and twisted around a crystal tube, is a unique design in scent bottles.

Applique work on bonbonnieres and watch-cases is much admired. It gives additional strength and rigidity to the article.

Two crossed silver battle axes, sup-porting a gold shield surrounded by a wreath of the same material, form an at-tractive design in brooches. A costly bracelet recently seen was a triple row of alternate graded diamonds and pearls, having on the upper side five portrait medallions surrounded by small brilliants.—[Jeweler's Weekly.

WHY?

Heart of me, why do you sigh?
Why drop your esolids, pale and shy,
Like snowflakes that on violets he?
Why do you sigh, my heart?

Sweating, wherefore do you weep? Thi the flowers that May winds steep, When the day hith sing to sleep, Seem from heads o' dew to peep? Why do you weep, my sweet?

Oh, my love, whence comes this glow, Like the sunset on the snow, Which on your fair face doth show? Why do you blush, my queen?

- [Ameila Rives in May "Harpey."

Must I speak your answer, dear?
Listen then, and you will hear
Why you sigh and weep and blush,
Why e'en now you bid me hush;
Sing, Oh sing, ye hirds that be;
Answer, music of the sea;
Spin, old earth, to melody;
For my one love loveth me—
Doth she not, my heart?
